

CTO to Go

Yoi Hibino

Yoi's career has spanned two continents over two decades. Yoi cut his technical teeth on product development, product management and product marketing. In the early 2000's he was instrumental in developing the first software tool solutions and launching graphic hardware for NVIDIA in Japan before eventually leading his own startup.

With a technical know-how that is both broad and deep, he is especially deft at architecting solutions that allow him to bring forth his vast expertise in the entire product roadmap process in both hardware and software.
